Up above the water, the sun is yellow and hot. Some children play with their balloons in the park. Fish swim up and down the river, in and out of the currents . It is dark under the plants in the river but the fish can see up and through the water. They can see the big blue sky and the green leaves of the trees.

Suddenly, a big white dog jumps into the river and the fish start swimming away – fast! A man shouts at the dog, “Get out of the water!”

After a while, the fish swim back. A red boat goes over to where the fish are and the people in the boat sound happy. A lady puts her hand in the water and the fish hear a laugh because it is very cold. People start to leave the park to go home. Soon there is no sound, just the fish swimming in the river with their other fish friends.
